

TOC offered by :

LIBRERIA NARDECCHIA - ROME

"Italian Bookdealers and Subscription Agents since 1985"

Contents

|                                                                                                                                                 |     |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Preface .....                                                                                                                            | 7   |
| Translatio studii: imitation and transformations of Italian humanist culture                                                             |     |
| SERENA DE BEER, Conrad Celtis's Visions of Rome Relocation, Contestation and Imitation of the Italian Renaissance in German Humanism .....      | 13  |
| ANDRE DEN HAAN, Sources, pools and runnels: The humanist reception of the Ordinary Gloss and Lyra's Postils .....                               | 33  |
| MARIEANNE PADE, Melanchthon and Thucydides: The reception of the Peloponnesian War in a Reformation context. ....                        | 47  |
| TRINE ARLUND HASS, Playing your Part: Bucolic Traditions and Positions in Hans Lauridsen Amerinus's Ecloga de pacis foedere (1573) ..... | 63  |
| PER SIGURD T. STYVE, Renaissance Images of Multiple Temporalities. ....                                                                         | 83  |
| LÆRKE MARIA ANDERSEN FUNDER, Meeting expectations and revealing aspirations: Ole Worm and the emergent genre of museum catalogues .....         | 103 |
| Teaching and development of Humanist Latin                                                                                               |     |
| CLEMENTINA MARSICO, Continuity and change in the Neo-Latin grammars of the European vernaculars (French, Castilian, German, and English) .....  | 123 |
| MORTEN FINK-JENSEN, Education, Humanism, and the Reformation in Denmark. ....                                                                   | 139 |
| JOHANN RAMMINGER, The Latin of the German Reformation and the Heritage of Quattrocento Humanism. ....                                           | 155 |
| CAMILLA PLESNER HORSTER, Humanist Latin for a new purpose: The indication of indirect discourse from Italy to Denmark .....                     | 179 |
| Competing Nations                                                                                                                        |     |
| MARC LAUREYS, Assessing the influence of Biondo Flavio's historical geography: the case of the Low Countries .....                              | 203 |

|                                                                                                                                                                               |  |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
| KAREN SKOVGAARD-PETERSEN, Stephanius's Notæ uberiores in Historiam Danicam Saxoniæ Grammatici (1645): a humanist commentary on a medieval history of Denmark .....     |  |
| PETER ZEEBERG, Collections of Latin inscriptions from the milieu around Henrich Rantzau .....                                                                                 |  |
| OUTI MERISALO, Urbes antiquissimæ : Renaissance influences in descriptions of towns and cities of seventeenth-eighteenth-century Magnus Ducatus Finlandiæ ..... |  |
| Index .....                                                                                                                                                                   |  |
| Contributors .....                                                                                                                                                            |  |